INTERNATIONAL TREATY FOR THE MOROCCAN STATE UNION

Declaration Of Unity & Independence

Introduction:

This Treaty forms a unified alliance between newly declared Moroccan State Governments of the Empire of Morocco. The signatories commit to mutual cooperation in resisting foreign capitulatory jurisdictions and advancing the decolonization of their respective trust territories, in accordance with jus cogens norms of international law and the principles enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations (1945).

Reaffirmation of Sovereignty:

The Indigenous Moors—descendants of former Moroccan subjects and protégés—having been involuntarily naturalized into foreign jurisdictions, hereby reclaim their inherent sovereignty. They reaffirm their allegiance to the laws and authority of the Moroccan Empire, pursuant to Article 15, Paragraph 1 of the Treaty of Madrid (1880), which affirms the rights of protection for Moroccan nationals.

Legal Basis for Statehood:

While the Treaty of Montevideo (1933) originated in the Americas, it provides internationally accepted criteria for statehood, including defined territory, permanent population, government, and capacity to enter into relations with other states. The de jure Moroccan State Governments meet these criteria and assert their legal personality and sovereign status under international law.

Principles of Governance:

Inspired by the principles of order, peace, and prosperity, the signatories commit to restoring the "Triple Principle" articulated in the Act of Algeciras (1906): Sovereignty and Independence, Territorial Integrity and Economic Liberty and Equality

Historical Context and Legal Continuity

The Treaty of Fes (1912), signed under duress by Sultan Abd al-Hafid, established the French Protectorate over the Moroccan Sherifian Empire. This arrangement remained in effect until the Franco-Moroccan Joint Declaration of March 2, 1956, which restored sovereignty to King Mohammed V over 162,120 square miles and a population of seven million. However, this transition marked a shift from imperial sovereignty to a constitutional monarchy, with implications for the broader Moroccan Empire.

Commitment to Decolonization and Restoration

Having endured systemic erasure and dispossession, the signatory states now unite to reclaim their allodial rights and ancestral inheritance. Through matriarchal governance structures, they shall enact legislation to restore reversionary estate interests to the Moroccan people—jus sanguinis heirs of the land.

This Treaty represents a collective commitment to the restoration of the Moroccan Empire, the protection of indigenous rights, and the advancement of lawful self-determination in accordance with international legal standards.

TREATY FOR THE RESTORATION OF THE MOROCCAN EMPIRE

A Holy Covenant of the Asiatic Nation

1. Ye are the children of one father, provided for by his care; and the breast of one mother hath given you suck.
2. Let the bonds of affection, therefore, unite thee with thy brothers, that peace and happiness may dwell in thy father's house.
3. And when ye separate in the world, remember the relation that bindeth you to love and unity; and prefer not a stranger before thy own blood.
4. If thy brother is in adversity, assist him; if thy sister is in trouble, forsake her not.
